

I am extremely pleased to share with you this book, which provides you a sampling of my design work over the past 25 years. As I reviewed its contents, I am struck with the wide variety of designs in varying climates, terrains and soils that my clients have given me the privilege of working on. Wherever the challenge has taken me - and some locations have been more difficult than I could have imagined - my staff and I have delivered high quality, on-schedule and on-budget project completions. Regardless if the assignment was to create a private or equity course, a memorable resort attraction or a functional and enjoyable daily fee or municipal facility, I have approached each opportunity with the same enthusiasm. Whether we provided a Fred Couples Signature or a Gene Bates Signature design, our responsibility is consistent, outstanding design, playability and quality.

I am delighted to announce a new member of my group, world renowned Golf Architect Ron Kirby. Ron, who is incidentally my mentor, best friend and father in-law, will be collaborating with us on many future projects.

Thank you for taking this time to review my work. I look forward to meeting with you personally to discuss how the Bates Golf Design Group can help you achieve your project goals.

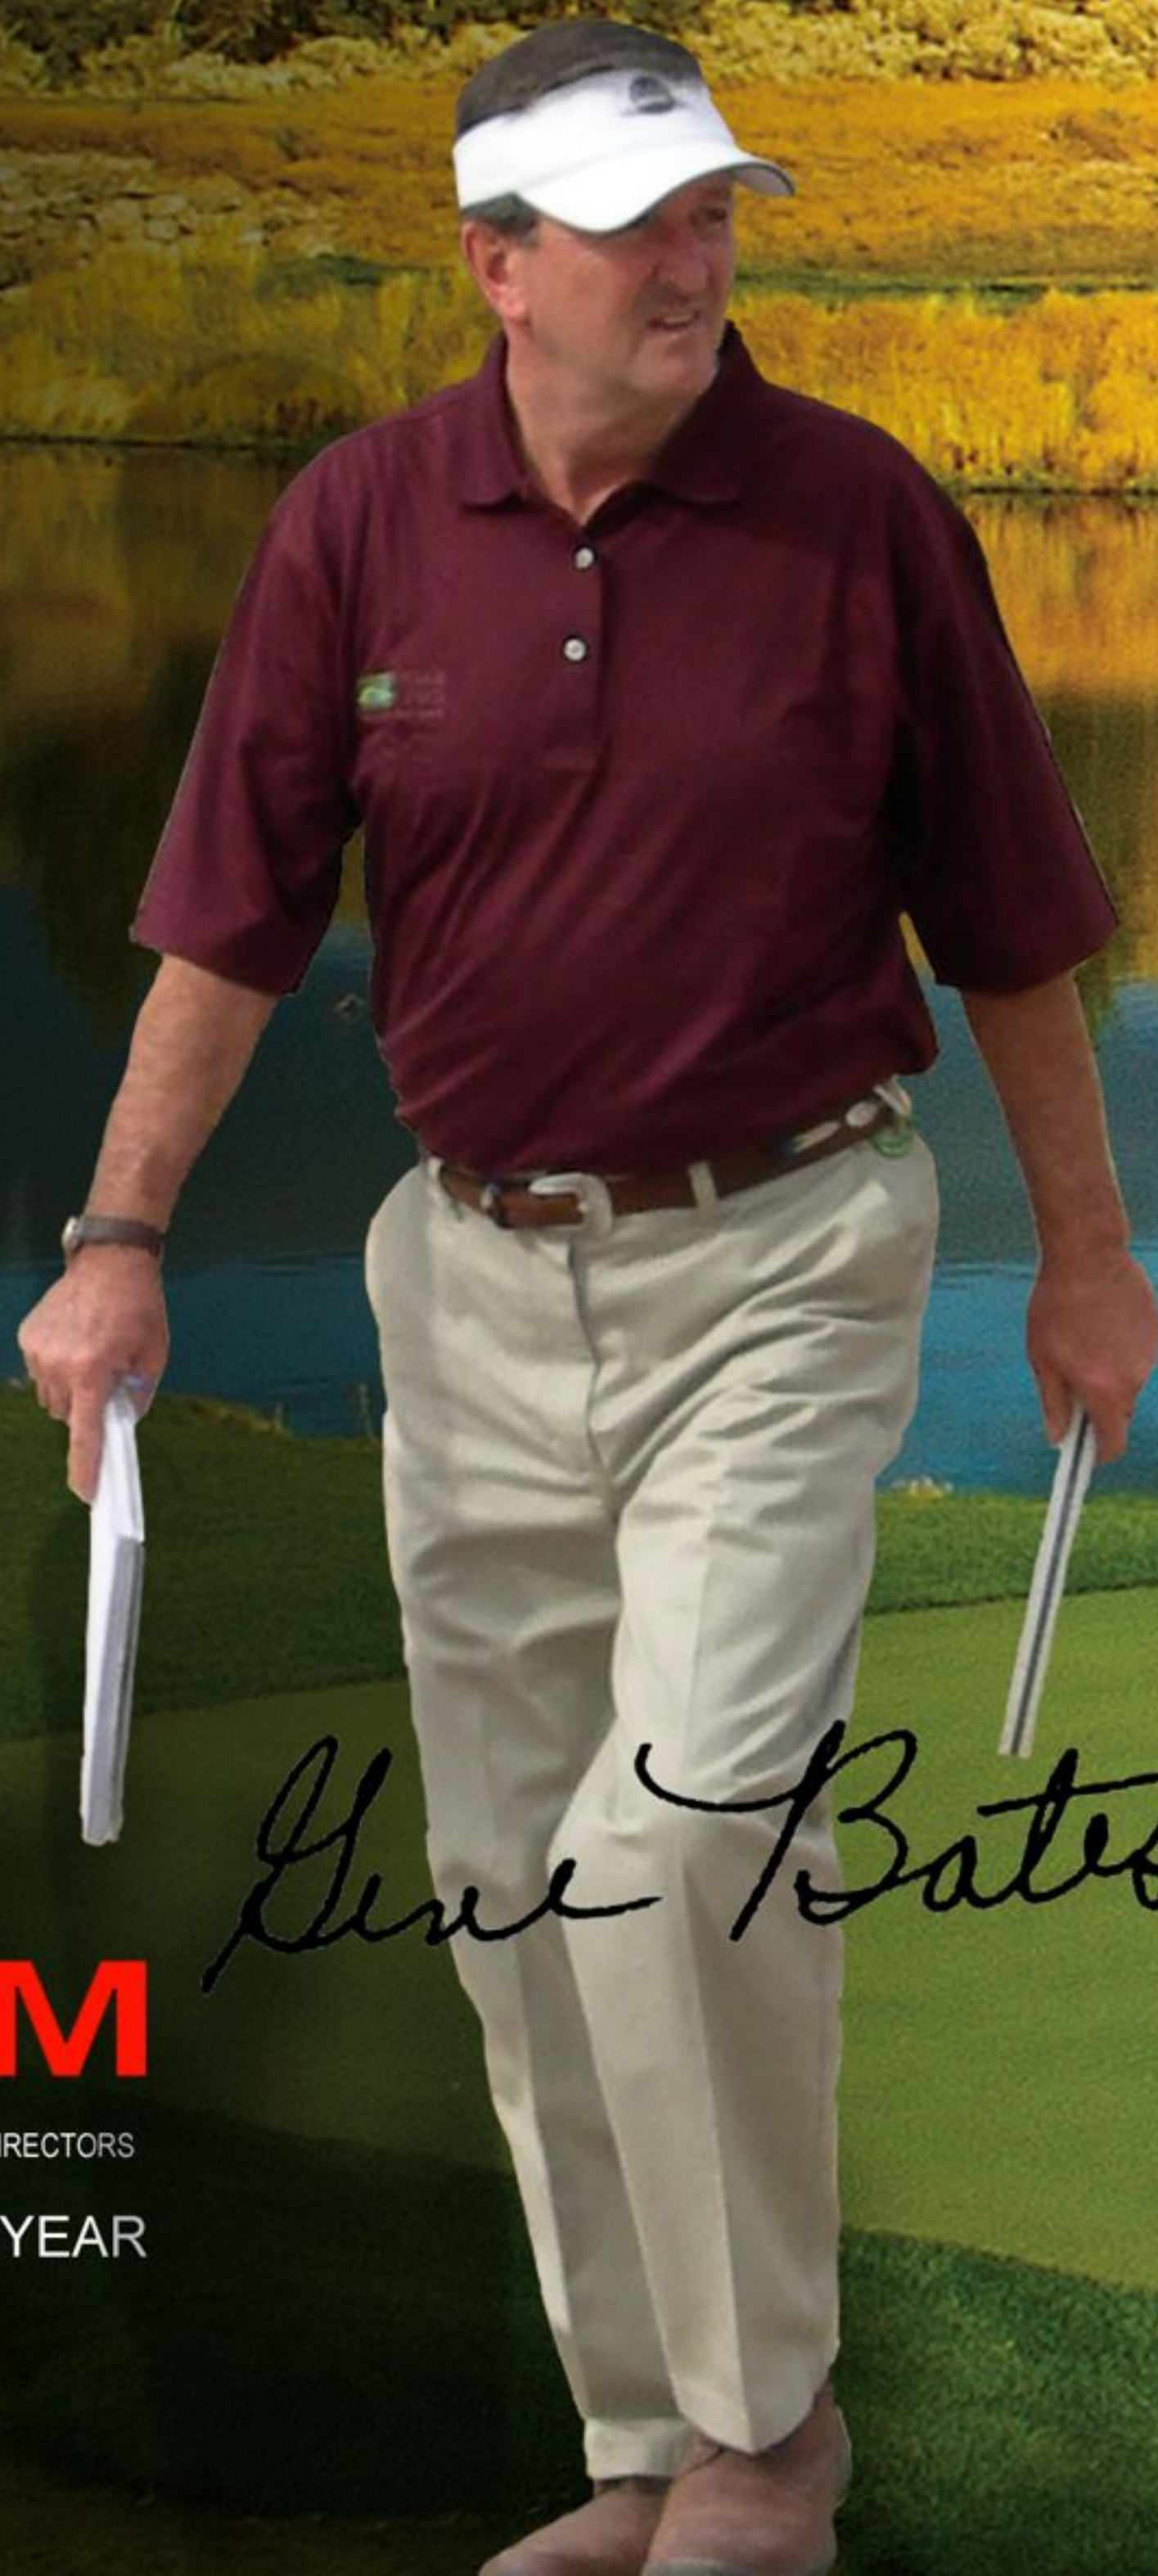

Gene Bates

Gene D. Bates

When great players look for experience in course design, they turn to Gene Bates.

Having served as Vice President of Design Services for Jack Nicklaus, Director of Design Services for Johnny Miller and his affiliation with Fred Couples, the domestic and international design expertise of Gene Bates is unsurpassed.

His team approach in working with owners, superintendents, land planners and civil engineers is admired throughout the industry. He clearly has a gift for golf course design and it is readily evident in every property that carries his distinctive touch. Attention to detail and quality assurance are only a few hallmarks by which Gene Bates is known.

Fred Couples

Couples Bates Golf Design is an affiliation between PGA Tour Pro Fred Couples and Course Architect Gene Bates.

This collaboration of competitor and designer creates the highest level of focus available for outstanding integrity in golf course design. It is this blending of disciplines that creates quality golf course architecture. We offer a variety of design services, from initial concept to finished product. Our objective is to design courses that challenge, yet are uniquely memorable as a great round of golf.

It is our intent to limit the total number of Fred Couples Signature courses in any one area so that the marketing value to our clients is not diluted. We take pride in the experience which Fred Couples brings to our design team. He helps create a golf course with unquestionable standards for beauty, challenge and reward.

A Couples Bates golf course is a truly pleasurable playing experience for golfers of all ages and ability levels.

Ron Kirby

RON KIRBY

After a lifetime of dedication and endless pursuit of golf course design, Ron Kirby has become an icon in the industry.

The American Society of Golf Course Architects has given Ron Kirby their most prestigious award of recognition when, in 2003, Ron was named a "Fellow."

Ron began his career as a Golf Course Superintendent in Petersham, Massachusetts. During the winters Ron started working with Mark Mahannah and Dick Wilson in Florida. He later moved on to become one of the Senior Designers with Robert Trent Jones Sr. before establishing his place in the golf course design world with the partnership of Gary Player. In 1986 Ron became Senior Designer for Nicklaus Design Services for all of Jack's European endeavors for many years.

Ron has many signature designs in his resume, but nothing as special as The Gary Player Country Club at Sun City in South Africa and The Old Head Golf Course in Kinsale, Ireland.

DEDICATED

Located on the Lockwood Folly River in coastal Carolina, this property is interspersed with many jurisdictional wetlands and protected habitats. Our dedication to balancing the environmental sensitivities of the site while introducing a golf course to the ecosystem was rewarded by being selected the #1 Best Coastal Course in the Carolinas for 1998.

Private & Equity Courses

When designing a Private Equity Course the key is quality. The members are looking for value and playability. Maintenance of the course must be immaculate but affordable. The overall course caliber is critical to proper value.

GOLF DIGEST

“Best Places to Play”

At 7,099 yards off the back tees, the Kelly Plantation is as tough as it is aesthetically beautiful.

Fred and Gene designed large, contoured greens. The fairways are meticulously manicured and are wide and often forgiving. The rough that bounds them, however, is a wild and beautiful world, a combination of long, wry grass with an assortment heather-like growth that's reminiscent of links courses in the wilds of Scotland. Bunkers are peppered throughout the course with an array of hazards – lakes and creeks and the bunkers are of every shape and size.

The views around the course are picturesque, and often stunning, especially those from the fourth fairway and green. The course, is always in first-class condition.

Due Process Stable Golf Course
Colts Neck, New Jersey

"As golf course architect working with Johnny Miller, I am proud of the transformation Due Process Stable made from a successful Thoroughbred horse stable to a leading golf course which opened in 1995.

The course has "18 signature holes" with each having a distinctive characteristic presenting challenges and opportunities for all. To keep the Thoroughbred stable feel, turf grasses such as Kentucky bluegrass and tall fescues were used to frame the fairways and the greens.

The waterfalls and the stream with the rock bridge on No. 8 all add to the experience. As a player, I can vividly remember each hole, the challenges and opportunities presented to me. These are the marks of a great golf course."

Soldier Hollow in Midway, Utah was the site of the 2002 Olympic Games Nordic events. Gene Bates was awarded the project by the State of Utah to design a 36 hole championship public course which interfaced with the cross country ski trails and bordered the triathlon area. The Bates Golf Design team was also assigned the task of Construction Management for the golf course and clubhouse structure. The project was built in record time and on budget.

SOUTHWOOD

The Southwood Golf Course was selected as the home of the Florida State University Men's and Women's Golf Team, an NCAA powerhouse. The course is designed for professional tournament play as well as for family play. The course measures 7,172 yards from the "Boom Boom" tees and 2,968 yards from the "Wee" tees for children. The course offers an exciting format with its five sets of regulation tees. The "Wee" tees also present a unique opportunity for a par 3 format.

#3 BEST NEW UPSCALE COURSE 2003

Award winning Golf Course Architect Gene Bates and PGA Tour Professional Fred Couples created this spectacular golf course within a quiet, natural foothill setting of mature oak trees and rolling hills near the Monterey Peninsula of northern California.

The front nine plays through a valley complete with lakes, interconnecting streams and native grasslands. While playing into the holes of the back nine you will experience being 200 feet above the valley floor with some spectacular views of pristine California.

The course was created with five sets of tees on a layout that measures more than 7,100 yards. In a recent survey of Golf Digest of over 1.5 million subscribers ranking more than 5000 public and resort courses, San Juan Oaks received special recognition as one of the top 10 courses.

When Gene Bates first walked this property he was asked to create a dynamic golf course for the Salt Lake County Parks and Recreation Department. Gene not only reclaimed this gravel pit for the county, but he also created the highest revenue generating golf course in the entire state of Utah. This is the most played and most popular golf course in the Salt Lake City area as well as in the State of Utah.

Renovations

No project has more impact with less budget than a course renovation. From simple changes of bunker design, to total re-routing of the course layout, a renovation project breathes new life and excitement into a club membership. Once again, the key to any great renovation project is communication. The best designs always match the demographics of the player to the style of the course desired.

2004 RENOVATION ARCHITECT OF THE YEAR

The Old Course at Broken Sound retained Gene Bates to help them update the golf course and solve a 20 year old permit dispute. After Gene evaluated the property he re-routed several holes and increased the water storage capacity by adding additional 10 acres, which was the amount needed to achieve closure to the permit requirements. The golf course is now the host course of the Champions Tour Allianz Championship and was one of the contributing projects which convinced the Board Room to award Gene Bates the 2004 Renovation Architect of the Year.

Castlemartyr Golf Club is a championship 18 hole inland links style course co-designed by Ron Kirby and Gene Bates. The golf course is 6,790 yards in length and a par 72 designed for resort play and to be fair, challenging and pleasurable for any caliber of player. The course perfectly integrates into the beautiful surrounding undulating landscape. The links design features memorable holes with sand-based greens, numerous bunkers and long rough, making it one of the finest courses built to date in Ireland.

Castlemartyr Golf Club is located in East Cork, Ireland in the village of Castlemartyr just minutes away from the rugged beauty of Ireland's southern coast.

The course resides on 220 acres of scenic woodlands, lakes and gardens adjacent to the landmark ruins of the estate's historic 12th century castle and is part of Capella Castlemartyr, a luxury 104-suite resort featuring world-class dining, meeting rooms, indoor pool and signature spa.

SENTOSA GOLF CLUB

Sentosa Golf Club challenged Gene Bates with the assignment of upgrading the Serapong Course to a Tour quality golf course for the Asian Tour's Singapore Open and additional Women's and Men's Tour events while maintaining an enjoyable course for the members.

Gene modified the strategy of the golf course to challenge the Tour players. Following the year-ending Singapore Open Tournament the Tour Players voted the Serapong Course at Sentosa the "Host Venue of the Year."

The success of the project is that the members enjoy the course while the Tour Players were challenged by the changes we made.

The Old Head Golf Club is truly one of the world's best gems. Hidden on the southwest edge of Ireland, just outside the city of Kinsale, is the peninsula of the Old Head property, jetting out into the Irish Sea.

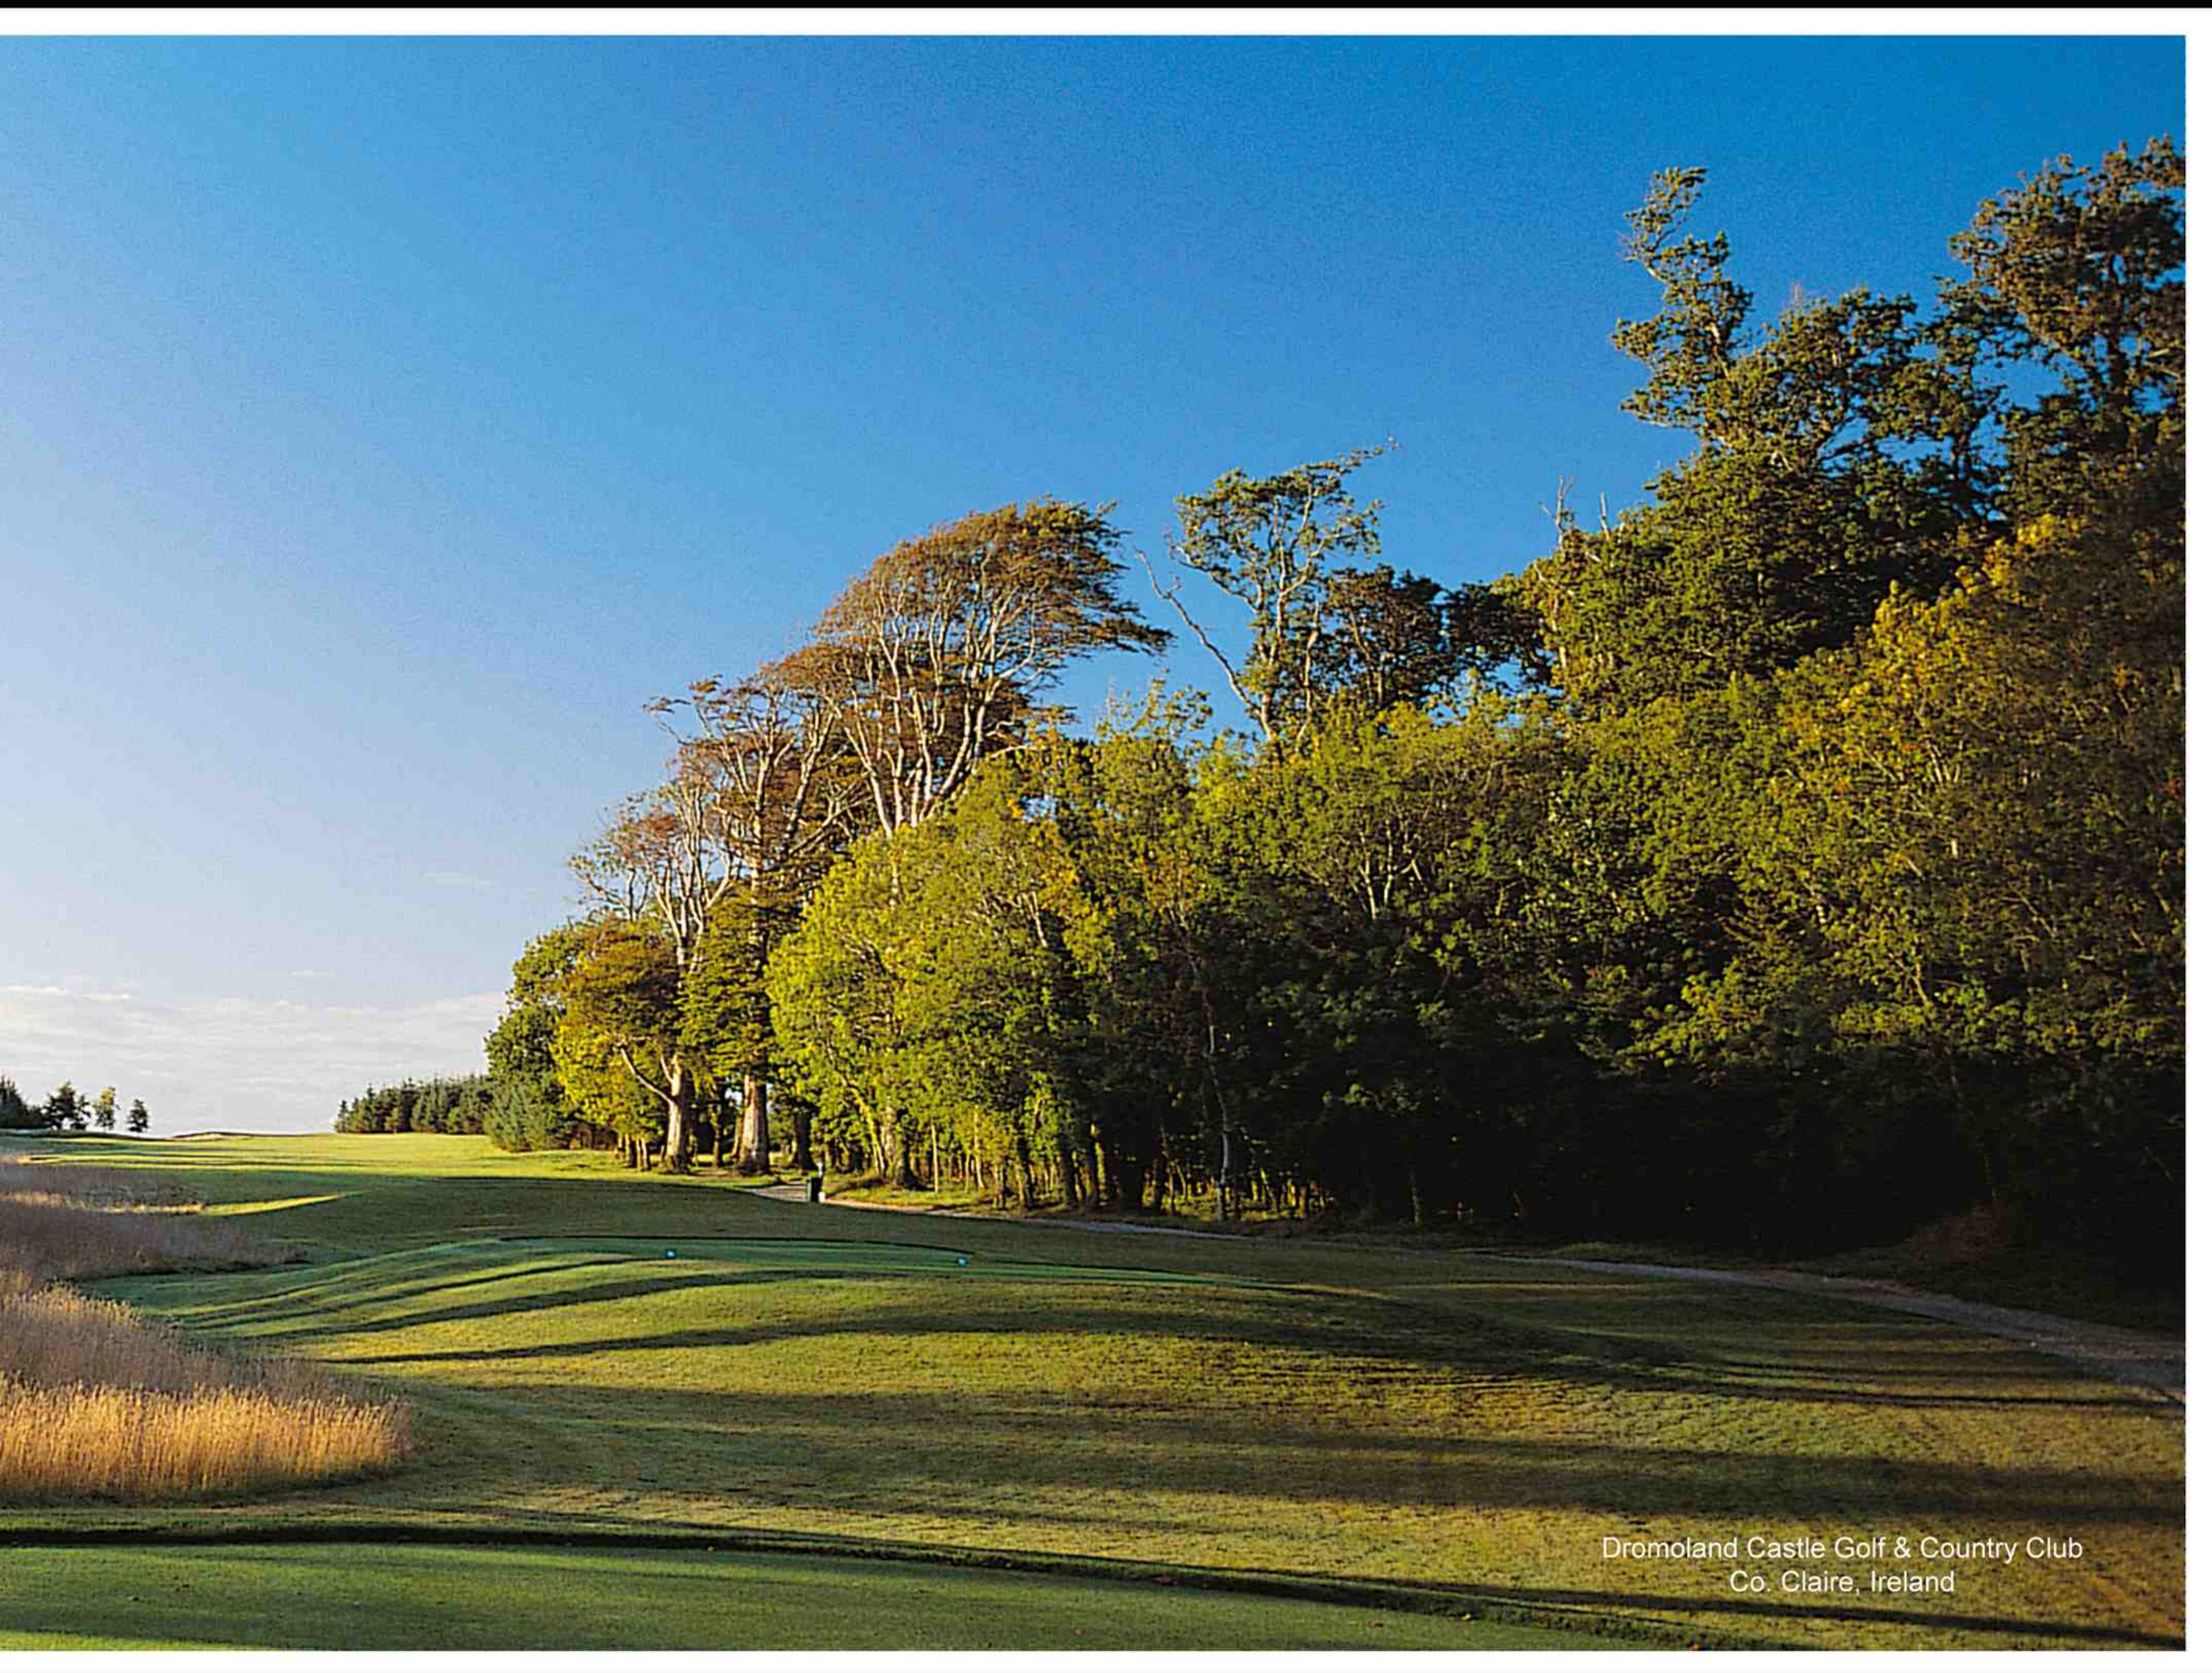

Designing and participating in the development of a golf course on this property is a once in a lifetime opportunity. The golf course has 14 of the 18 holes influenced by the ocean and one hundred foot cliff walls. This masterpiece is the creation of Ron Kirby.

Fred Couples and Gene Bates enjoy one of the longest on going Tour Player and Golf Course Designer relationships today.

They established their relationship in 1991, the year prior to Fred's Masters victory at Augusta National. The first course they designed was Hamilton Mill Golf Club, just outside the city limits of Atlanta, Georgia.

Dedication, hard work and the endless pursuit to be the best describes the reason this relationship has grown and will continue to evolve.
